

Fight for Reduction In Electric Rates in Many Parts of Country

Survey Discloses Fight For Greater Regulation and Reduction in Many Sections—Spotlight on Battle Front Thrown on New York.

By The Associated Press

Although the spotlight on the public utilities battle front is thrown on New York today with Governor Herbert H. Lehman and members of the legislature insisting on a far flung investigation of all utility companies as a result of the sensational "three letters" nevertheless the fight for greater regulation and reduction in rates is being pressed in many parts of the country, a survey discloses.

Governor Lehman is assured that an investigation will be voted by the legislature. His chief concern now is to find a man "Charles Evans Hughes to conduct it" in order that it will be thoroughly made.

The latest development came early today as the Dunnigan resolution was being revised in the senate to include specifically the state's public service commission in the general investigation.

In the nation's capital the house voted yesterday a nationwide investigation of electric power rates by the federal trade commission. The senate has already passed the resolution.

The situation in New York was brought to a head by the publication last week in Washington of letters, purported to have been written by State Senator Warren T. Thayer in 1927 and 1928, when he was chairman of the senate public service committee, to the Associated Gas and Electric Company, which asked if his work had been "satisfactory," and pointed out that "detrimental bills" had been killed in his committee. The senate judiciary committee will begin investigation of the letters Monday.

In addition Gov. Lehman's eleven bills for utilities reform in the state are reported well on their way to passage by the senate. Last year the senate public service committee killed his program.

In many other states action is being planned toward closer regulation and reduction of rates.

Pennsylvania's public service commission this week passed a resolution proposing informal conferences with all utilities companies to make six per cent instead of seven the allowed fair return on property value.

In Michigan the state public utilities commission has just ordered a re-opening of the telephone rate case to determine the possibility of lowering rates to flat users and the feasibility of a flat charge for Detroit instead of the flat charge for a limited number of calls plus four cents for each additional call now made.

West Virginia is using a legislative appropriation of $30,000 to investigate utility rates "with the view of securing for the users of utility service a downward revision in rates" and many reductions have already been ordered.

Arkansas has a fact finding tribunal set up last year to provide cities with expert aid in rate fixing, which is now engaged in investigating the power companies.

Six bills were introduced in the New Jersey legislature this week to broaden the public utility commission's powers, including the authorization to fix temporary rates pending determination of the fairness of the permanent rate structure.

In Utah the commission has cases pending against power and telephone companies to reduce rates.

Commissions in California and Oregon have all recently ordered rate reductions, but no legislation is pending in either of these states.

Washington is investigating all privately owned companies under a law passed last year.

A disagreement in Nebraska over the extent of jurisdiction of the commission is holding up the commission's effort to exercise more power of the telephone companies.

Rhode Island has several regulatory bills in committee but action on any of them is said to be unlikely.

Municipal ownership proposals are in six cities in Wisconsin at last Tuesday's election and lost in seven others.

The Ohio legislature has a proposition before it providing for an increase in the excise tax on utility companies.

Flood Death Toll Is Placed At 25; Property Loss About $1,000,000

North and Southwest Hard Hit as Result of Floods—

Eight Bodies Recovered From Washita River—Death List Stood at Nine in Wisconsin—Last Property Damage Reported.

(By The Associated Press)

At least 25 persons are believed dead, a number are missing and the property damage is near a million dollars as a result of floods in the north and southwest.

In western and northwestern Wisconsin the death list stood at nine. Officials mapped relief plans at Eau Claire for victims in eight counties swamped by rains and melting snow.

Storms in Ohio caused damage estimated at $100,000. A man was killed by lightning at Canton.

In Kansas the rains continued but were less serious. Farmers expected their crops to be better.

Snow held up highway and air traffic in the Rocky Mountain region and lay as deep as 15 inches in places in the Dakota hills.

In the east 10 families near Hartford, Conn., abandoned their homes when the Connecticut river rose more than two feet above flood stage.

Elk City Victims.

Elk City, Okla., April 5 (P.)—Eight bodies had been recovered today as the receding Washita river gave up the victims of its disastrous rampage.

Nine of ten persons still were missing as boats piled the flood wreckage.

The bodies were found along a 10-mile stretch of the river. Those found:

Mrs. A. M. Adams and her daughters, Opal, 18, Lola Fay, 5, and Audrey, 10. Three other daughters, believed drowned, have not been found.

L. L. Fentner, a Hammon filling station operator, his wife, a small daughter and their oldest son, the body of a younger son has not been recovered. That of the daughter, Stella Mae, 10, was found yesterday.

Two rescue workers whose capsize boat was found earlier, telephoned Hammon from Butler to report they were safe. The two, Rusty Toller and Harry Kemp, said they swam ashore.

"Alarm" Calendar To Be Tried Out At May Term of Supreme Court

Cases Ready For Trial At Short Notice Will Be Placed On Second Calendar—Will Ask That Changes Be Made To Court Room.

Members of the Ulster County Bar discussed on Wednesday the matter of amending the practice in this county of court procedure so that a more rapid disposition of cases might be had. The matter of having an "alarm" calendar was talked over and this will be tried at the May term of Supreme court. A day calendar known as the "alarm" calendar upon which cases ready for trial at short notice are placed. This eliminates the necessity of many attorneys being constantly in court to watch a long day calendar and also eliminates the necessity of having witnesses in court for days waiting for a case to be reached. From the "alarm" calendar cases are moved to the day calendar as cases are disposed of.

The matter of an alteration of the court room to give better facilities was also discussed. A plan will be drawn up and the board of supervisors will be asked to have the changes made.

Adjournment Taken In Port Case Today

LeRoy F. Port was arraigned in police court this afternoon before Special City Judge Walter N. Gill on the charge of grand larceny in the first degree, the alleged defalcation having been committed at the National Ulster County Bank. An adjournment was granted for one week on motion of the defendant's attorney, A. H. Cook. Assistant District Attorney N. LeVan Haver did not oppose the granting of the adjournment. Bail was continued.

Mr. Port is a former vice president of the old National Ulster County Bank and Trust Company, and is accused of certain irregular transactions, according to an alleged confession signed by himself, amounting to about $12,000. He is accused specifically of the embezzlement of $11,471.14.

Mr. Port was arrested on Saturday, March 31, on a warrant that had been issued on orders from District Attorney Cleon B. Murray. The arrest was made by Chief Wood and Sergeant Simpson and the same day Port was arraigned before Judge Cullen in police court where he entered a plea of not guilty and the hearing was adjourned until this afternoon.

Bail was fixed at $5,000 which was furnished by Mrs. W. Dean Hays of 110 Fair street.

Mr. Port had been connected with the old bank for about fifteen years, serving as vice president for some time prior to the closing of the bank. When the new bank opened Mr. Port was retained temporarily because of his familiarity with various phases of the work.

Attorney Andrew J. Cook is representing Port who is 34 years old, married and lives at 52 Lounsberry Place.

Mehrman Is Arrested On Bench Warrant on Manslaughter Charge

Driver of Car Accused of Fatally Injuring Helen Nicholson on Saugerties Road in February Released on Bail—Trial Set for April 12.

William T. Mehrman, Sr., 50, of Quarryville, was arrested this morning on a bench warrant issued by County Judge Traver, charging manslaughter in the second degree. He furnished bail and was released.

The arrest was the result of an accident on the Saugerties road in February in which Helen Nicholson of Ivy Lodge received fatal injuries. After an extensive investigation at the time by state troopers Mehrman was arrested as the alleged driver of the car which caused the accident and was charged with leaving the scene of an accident. He was arraigned before Justice Walter Webber on that charge and the hearing was postponed until April 4 at which time Mehrman demanded a jury trial. A jury was drawn and the trial postponed to Thursday, April 12, at 7 p. m. At the appearance before Judge Webber the defendant was represented by Roger H. Loughran, Trooper Arthur Reilly appearing as complainant.

Loughran Will File Answer to Charges

County Superintendent of Highways Will File His Answer to Charges Upon Which Democratic Supervisors Hope to Have Him Removed.

There will be a special meeting of the board of supervisors held Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the court house at which time charges against County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran will be heard. At a meeting of the board a week ago charges were filed and at that time the time set for hearing the charges was fixed for tomorrow evening. At that time Mr. Loughran will appear before the board and file his answer to the charges upon which the Democratic supervisors hope to have him removed from office.

After hearing the matter, if the Democratic vote to oust Mr. Loughran, the matter will go to the courts to determine whether the charges are substantiated by the courts.

Should Mr. Loughran be dismissed by the Democratic vote, and the board is Democratic by one vote, it will mean that Mr. Loughran will lose his pension to which public officials are entitled through long service in public office unless the court finds that the board has erred and that the charges are not of sufficient importance to permit his dismissal. Should the courts so find he would be reinstated for the term to which he was elected last fall by the unanimous vote of the board.

Appropriate Sum of $15,000 For Work Relief In April

Common Council Unanimously Grants Request of Works Division for an Appropriation to Pay City's Share of Work Relief This Month—Works Division Submits Reports.

The new Works Division of the city, which replaced the CWA the first of April, sent in a report to the common council Wednesday evening in which it was stated that Kingston's limit for reimbursements for home relief, work relief and work relief materials for April had been officially set at $55,000, and of that amount the Works Division estimated it would spend $37,000 in wages. The request of the Works Division for an appropriation of $15,000 to pay the city's share of the work was unanimously granted and the aldermen took the necessary steps to make the appropriation.

The report from the Works Division follows:

On April 1 the CWA officially ended and the functions heretofore exercised by the CWA were transferred to the Works Division of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration. Thus, work projects ceased to be a federal and became a city undertaking, with the aid of federal and state funds.

Under present rulings the TERA will reimburse municipalities to the extent of 75 per cent of their home relief and work relief expenditures and $15,000,000.00 has been fixed as the amount to be expended by New York state cities from April 1 to October, both inclusive, as follows:

April	$25,000,000.00
May	$25,000,000.00
June	$25,000,000.00
July	$25,000,000.00
August	$25,000,000.00
September	$25,000,000.00
October	$25,000,000.00

Kingston limit for reimbursable home relief, work relief, and work relief materials has been officially set for April at $55,000.00 by the State TERA, of which $41,250.00 will be reimbursed by the state. Commissioner of Public Welfare Halloran estimates that $10,000.00 will be required for home relief expenditures and $890.00 for his administrative pay roll during April. This leaves approximately $44,000.00 available in our quota for work relief labor and materials, of which the state will reimburse us 75 per cent. We estimate that this will be spent as follows:

as the amount to be expended by New York state cities from April 1 to October, both inclusive, as follows:

April	$25,000,000.00
May	22,500,000.00

These figures do not include compensation insurance as our information is that the government will provide insurance as heretofore under the CWA.

Several CWA projects heretofore approved remain unfinished on April 1st. These projects will be continued and additional projects as follows undertaken:

Painting, wiring and plumbing repairs to City Home.

The TERA regulations covering Works Division operations provide that the city shall pay 25% of the labor and material costs and 100% of the cost of rent, office supplies and such other miscellaneous expenses as are outside the category of labor and materials used on the jobs. Normal cost of such items are credited as a part of the local contribution of 25% of the total expenditures. Operating costs of city owned equipment, such as trucks, tractors, compressors, etc., used on Works Division projects may be counted into the local material costs to the extent of only "out of pocket" expense to the municipality for operating expenses.

We estimate that the sum of $15,000.00 will be necessary in carrying out work relief projects for the month of April under the quota fixed by the State TERA.

We therefore request your honorable body to approve and authorize the creation and establishment of the Works Division of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration, to approve and authorize the transfer to the Works Division of the functions heretofore performed by the Civil Works Administration, to approve the continuation of the projects commenced under the CWA and remaining unfinished as of April 1, 1934; to approve the execution of the new projects listed herein; and to make an appropriation of $15,000.00 to cover the city's share of the cost of Works Division operations for the month of April, 1934.

Local Laws Nos. 1, 2 and 3, intended in straightening out the collection of city taxes and the time for holding sale of properties on which the tax had not been paid, were unanimously adopted by the aldermen.

Kingston Community Band.

Alderman Zucca called attention to the fact that the Kingston Community Band desired the use of the Kingston Municipal Auditorium to hold a dance to raise funds for the organization, which was in need of funds at this time. He said the band was willing to furnish the music if the city gave the use of the building, and that band and city could split 50-50 on the proceeds. Or if the council desired the band would pay the flat rate for the use of the auditorium. On motion, the council adopted Alderman Zucca's plan that the proceeds be divided 50-50.

Motions and Resolutions.

The following resolutions were introduced and referred to the proper city boards:

Alderman Tremper—that police department provide further protection to stop the speeding of motor vehicles on Albany avenue.

Alderman Cornwell—that street sign be placed at entrance to Kingsberg avenue; that streets in Eleventh ward be swept and that they be given a sweeping at various intervals during the summer months; that a "full stop" traffic sign be placed on Pine street at the northeast corner of this street and Henry street; that a "caution" traffic sign be placed on Wilbur avenue near where this street enters Pine street; also that a "caution" traffic sign be placed on Pine street near the southeast corner of the street and Henry street.

Alderman Epstein—that a dangerous condition existed where the CWA had rounded the curb at Hasbrouck avenue and Meadow street and should receive attention; that Works Division lay sanitary sewer on East.

Council Acts to Condemn Boulevard Land If Necessary

Public Works Board Acts to Institute Condemnation Proceedings and Council Approves Action—Negotiating With Owner and Such Step May Not Prove Necessary—Other Matters.

The Board of Public Works had previously acted to institute condemnation proceedings to acquire necessary rights of way on the Boulevard if necessary and the action of the board was unanimously approved by the common council Wednesday evening. It was stated, however, that Corporation Counsel Matthew V. Cahill was negotiating with the owner of the strip of land needed and that it might not be necessary to start condemnation proceedings, but the action was taken so that there would be no delay in the building of the road in case the negotiations fell through.

The strip of land needed to widen out the road is that owned by Joseph A. Murray and wife. The public works board reported it had obtained all of the other rights of way needed.

The state highway department is expected to open bids for the construction of the Boulevard this week.

Works Division Board.

Mayor Heiselman sent in the following communication announcing the personnel of the Works Division which replaced the CWA the first of the month:

"This is to certify that I have designated as members of the local Works Division of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration the following:

"Henry Forst, chairman.
"Alva S. Staples.
"Nicholas Hogeboom.

"These are the same gentlemen who, since December 1st, have directed the local CWA with such splendid results. They have given generously of their time and effort and have devoted themselves unflinchingly to the task of intelligently planning and directing the employment of 1,200 men and women of this city in work projects that will be of lasting benefit to the people of our community. To have accomplished the results obtained during one of the bitterest winters in history is a tribute to the worth and fortitude of the supervisory and laboring forces engaged in the work.

"The CWA was a hastily conceived undertaking and some communities, because of the absence of any planned program, got little of community value for the money expended. Kingston was extremely fortunate in this respect. By the use of good judgment and intelligent planning, our CWA commissioners have given the city improvements of value to the community. The sewer work undertaken will last for years and will eliminate future expenditures for sewer repair. The Municipal Auditorium should foster the development of our city as a convention center and provide an ideal plant for the cultural, educational and recreational growth of our people.

"I wish to emphasize, too, that the CWA commissioners in devoting their time and energies to the city's business have worked tirelessly without any compensation whatever and their willingness to serve out of a sense of civic duty should be an inspiration to others."

Governor Lehman's Chief Utility Measure Is Defeated By Senate

Twenty-six Votes Were Needed for Passage, While Ballot Recorded Was 22-22—Democratic Majority Leader Moves for Reconsideration of Bill To Open Way for Amendments and a New Vote—Senator Warren T. Thayer Was Absent—Two Minor Bills Passed.

Senator John J. Dunnigan, Democratic majority leader and sponsor of the bill, immediately moved to reconsider the measure. This opened the way for possible adoption of a new vote.

Seven Democrats joined 15 members of the Republican minority in voting "no."

The strong Republican opposition arose when Dunnigan refused to accept three amendments insisted upon by Senator George H. Fenton, the minority leader.

The amendments would have made construction of municipal power plants subject to (1) approval of a majority of property owners; (2) approval by the public service commission; and (3) possible acquisition by the municipality of existing private plants.

The senate immediately prepared to vote on Gov. Lehman's other utility bills throwing added restrictions about holding companies, rate schedules and business methods.

Senator Warren T. Thayer, Franklyn county Republican, center of the public utilities controversy, was not present.

Democrats who voted against the bill were James J. Crawford, of Brooklyn, John J. Howard of Brooklyn, Michael J. Kernan of Utica, John J. McNamara of New York, H. L. O'Brien of Brooklyn, Ozden J. Ross of Troy and Stephen J. Wojtkowiak of Buffalo.

Republican Senators who voted for the bill were George Humberg of Brooklyn, Seabury C. Masick of Westchester, and Percy A. Plicher of Watertown.

Senator Charles J. Hewitt of Locke, and Lawrence G. Williams of Buffalo, were present but were excused from voting.

Absentees were: Senator Thayer, who returned to his home at Chateaugay to prepare for Monday's investigation of his connections with the Associated Gas and Electric Company; Senator Nelson W. Cheney, Republican of Eden; Senator Cosmo A. Cilano, Rochester Republican; George L. Thompson, Kings Park Republican; and Senator J. Griswold Webb, Dutchess Republican.

Senator Hewitt gave no reason for not wishing to vote. Senator Williams said his law firm had represented a gas and electric company. A few minutes later the senate passed two minor bills in the Lehman program.

One of these, the Joseph bill, permits villages, which already own power plants to extend their systems outside of the village limits with the consent of the Public Service Commission. The vote on this bill was 45 to 1, Senator Baxter voting "No."

The other was the Burchill bill to charge utility companies fees for the filing of certain financial documents. Fees run from $50 to $100, depending on the value of stocks, bonds, notes and other indebtedness. The vote on this also was 45 to 1, Baxter voting negative.

Havana Newsbuilding Burns.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—Although no actual score-card has been kept, this session of congress probably will be put into a class by itself for the bizarre and revolutionary proposals advanced to bring the country out of the doldrums.

Some appeal to one's sense of humor. Others border on the ridiculous. Others sound fantastic.

One of the most unusual proposals made is that contained in a bill known as H.R. 1316, introduced by Edward A. Kenney, serving his first term in the house from New Jersey.

Kenney's bill provides for a billion dollar lottery supervised and conducted by the federal government. Out of it he proposes to take a lump sum and turn it over to veterans who have had their compensation cut and to low-salaried federal employees.

In a recent speech before the house in support of his bill, he declared with confidence:

"We are coming to this sort of thing eventually. It is not delay. He admits that five years ago such a thing would have sounded crazy, but today—no."

Surprised Senators

The sudden decision of the senate to vote on ratification of the St. Lawrence waterways treaty four hours before the time previously agreed upon, rather nettled some senators on both sides of the question.

Carter Glass of Virginia was sick in bed at his downtown hotel when the young started. He jumped out of bed, dressed in a hurry, called a taxi and rushed to the capitol. He arrived in the senate chamber just as Vice President Garner announced the treaty had been defeated. Glass was absent.

Trammell of Florida, however, was for it. He was at the White House at the time the voting started. Although far from alphabetical on the roll, he couldn't get there in time.

Gore of Oklahoma was on his way to the chamber to make a speech on the subject only to find when he got there his name was being called. He noted it.

Garner Uses Lash

JACK GARNER is credited with speedily whipping up quick to sense the mood of the senate, knowing that private polls had revealed that the treaty was doomed, he popped the question out of a clear sky.

There was nothing to do but vote. The vice president applied the lash to senators for the remainder of the day. When they adjourned shortly after 5 o'clock in the afternoon, even old-timers were amazed at the day's work.

They had defeated the treaty, passed a two appropriation bill amounting to more than $346,000,000, passed the highly controversial bill providing funds for the army to carry the air mail, and had voted to guarantee the bonds of the Home Owners' Loan corporation.

No one can remember when the senate accomplished so much at one sitting.

Rotarians See and Hear Three Named on Corn-Hog Board

Traffic Manager of Commercial Airline Corporation Presents Scenic Movie of Chicago-New York Trip—Mayor Heiselman a Speaker.

The operation of the American Airways in its daily task of transporting passengers and mail over its sky routes, was illustrated to the members of the local Rotary Club yesterday noon through the medium of a sound motion picture, entitled "Fly American." The presentation of the film was under the supervision of Max Pollet, traffic manager of the American Airways.

Scenic views of the various routes of the American Airways system, and a complete picture of passenger flight, from the time the traveller purchased his ticket in Chicago until his arrival in New York city, were features of the program. The picture also stressed the safety of air plane travel, showing in detail the various safety methods the organization took to keep its schedule free from accidents.

Mayor Heiselman, a guest at the meeting, spoke to the members shortly before the showing of the picture, explaining the possibilities and hindrances of building an airport in Kingston.

Other guests present included Harry Halverson, president of Kingston, Max L. Reben, Burton Davis, Bert Knauth, DeLooney, DeGraff, Alva S. Staples, N. Hodgeboom, Kenneth Ramsey, E. MacLachlan, C. S. Carter and Ed McCaffery of New York city. Alfred Harder, a former member of Rotary, was welcomed back into the club after an absence of several months.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks black, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Acid often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and so." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Mrs. Gary Is Dead, Widow of Steel Chief

New York, April 5 (AP).—Mrs. Elsie M. Gary, widow of the steel magnate, died at 5 o'clock this morning at her Fifth Avenue residence after a prolonged illness.

Mrs. Gary was the second wife of Elbert H. Gary, who was chairman of the United States Steel Corporation at the time of his death in 1927. They were married in 1905, three years after the death of his first wife.

At the time of their marriage he was identified with the United States Steel Corporation for four years. Mrs. Gary's most important role was as hostess at the famous dinners she and her husband gave when he was at the peak of his power.

After his death in 1927, she lived in their Fifth Avenue apartment in an upper Fifth Avenue apartment.

She was a meticulous housekeeper. Her servants were carefully looked in and out of the building, and every morning a report of their movements was slipped under her door.

One reason for such care was the great value of the furnishings and antiques in their home. The Garys' dinner service alone was reported to be worth $500,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary had no children, although Mr. Gary had two daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Gary Sutcliffe and Mrs. Bertha Gary Campbell, by his first wife.

W. N. Conner Heads Funeral Directors

At the annual meeting of the Catskill Mountain Funeral Directors' Association, District 1, comprising the counties of Ulster, Greene and Sullivan, held Wednesday evening at Windham, L. G. Laidlaw of Liberty and Joseph F. Deegan of Kingston were elected vice presidents. Joseph L. Keenan of Saugerties was elected treasurer and Henry J. Bruck of Kingston was elected secretary. All of the foregoing officers together with R. S. Twiss of Roscoe were named as a board of directors.

Prior to the business meeting which was held at the W. N. Conner Funeral Home on Fair Street a banquet was served at the Stuyvesant. President W. N. Conner named the following nominating committee which offered the slate of officers: James Kozt of Catskill, V. T. Pine of New Paltz and A. J. Cunningham of Greenville.

W. M. Bertrand of Poughkeepsie, field secretary of the National Funeral Directors' Association, was present at the meeting and spoke of matters of interest to the members, including a talk on the proposed legislation relative to the funeral directors business.

It was voted to hold the next meeting on July 5, the time and place to be announced later.

May Build Addition To Masonic Club

Architect George Lowe is working on plans for the utilization for Masonic Lodge purposes of the former Gray property, adjoining the Governor Clinton Hotel. The property was purchased in December, 1932, by a holding company representing Kingston Lodge, No. 12 and Roundout Lodge, No. 343. It is now being used as a home for the Kingston Masonic Club.

No definite plans have been made as yet, but one suggestion that has met with considerable favor involves the erection of a two-story addition at the rear of the present building.

Captivity Agrees With Vulture

Despite the fact that in its natural way of living the vulture spends much of its time soaring high in the air, captivity has been found to agree with these birds remarkably well. Specimens living in menageries have been known to attain an age of thirty or forty years, which is undoubtedly a greater age than they are likely to reach under natural conditions. Commenting on this fact, a zoo correspondent for the London Observer remarks that the instinct of most animals is to lounge rather than to work, so long as they are kept well provided with food, and that the vultures don't mind having freedom restricted so long as they do not have to work for a living.

WIDOWS DENIED DAMAGES FOR HUSBANDS KILLED IN 1922

New York, April 5 (AP).—Nine widows sat stunned early today when a jury denied them damages for the deaths of their husbands in the steamboat observation disaster in 1922.

The nine men were among 72 persons killed when the vessel exploded while carrying workmen to their jobs on the new Riker Island Penitentiary in the East River.

The women each brought suit for $50,000 against the E. J. Carlin Construction Company and the Albee Godfrey, Whale Creek Company. The court's decision was a surprise, saying the boat was badly in need of repairs, but not through any fault of theirs.

Tail Pulling a Remedy For Many Sick Birds

Woodstock, April 5.—Be it canary, pigeon or crow, if he is ailing, one of the most effective ways of helping the bird back to normal is to pull out its tail. Only the large quill-like feather should be removed and they should be drawn one at a time. This hurts the bird no more than it hurts to pull a hair from your head. When a feather is lost either by nature's design during moulting season or in some other way the bird immediately sets about growing a new one. Depending on the kind of bird and type of feather the process of growing a feather takes from 3 to 6 weeks.

It really requires a great deal more vitality and elements of feed to grow feathers than it does meat but the necessity of producing the lost feathers so greatly increases the bird's general circulation of blood that unless it is pretty far gone before the remedy is applied it usually gives quick relief.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 5 (AP).—Buffalo University officials today announced the appointment of George Van Bibber, former Purdue tackle and now a member of the faculty of the Mount Pleasant Michigan Teachers College, as head football coach. Van Bibber succeeds Jimmy Wilson, in charge of Buffalo football for the last two years, and will act as director of physical education in addition to his football duties.

Fish Buying Resumed

New York, April 5 (AP).—Buying of fresh water fish was resumed today in the Fulton market after a retail dealers' strike of several days. Wholesalers said they had been forced to yield to the retailers after a midnight conference, and counsel for the retailers said the retailers resumed buying when wholesalers "collectively" agreed to recognize their organization "with a view to future cooperation."

Boy Scouts Asked To Help Find Boy

The missing persons bureau of the New York police department has asked the local Boy Scout office to assist in finding Alexander Shapiro, missing since March 9. He is described as being five feet 8½ inches tall, weight 160 pounds, dark brown hair, brown eyes, small broad nose and thick lips. He is 15 years of age but looks to be 18, has a small scar across the bridge of the nose and a pock mark over the left eye-brow.

The Congregational Church dart baseball team will play on its home court Friday night, meeting the St. James team. Starting time of the contest is 8:15 o'clock. The St. James team will leave from their church at 7:30. A good time is promised by the Congregational club.

Adirondack Trout Season

Saranac Lake, N. Y., April 5 (AP).—Warm weather of the past week has cleared brooks in the Adirondacks of ice, to the delight of trout fishermen who plan to be on the streams when the season opens Saturday morning. However, high water in most of the streams will put a damper on the probability of large opening day catches. Rains have washed plenty of feed into the brooks so that the trout may not be too apt to bite.

Crown Prince Pays Homage.

Tokyo, April 5 (AP).—Akihito Tsugo No Miya, the three-months-old crown prince of Japan, was carried before venerable shrines in the Imperial palace today to pay homage to more than 100 generations of his ancestors. It was a part of the ancient ritual which is to be so important to the infant's future life, but the babe, in the arms of his nurse, appeared oblivious of the awesomeness of the occasion.

The Daily Cross Word Puzzle

Delegate Calls Alaska Helpless To Defend U. S. In 'Next War'

Anthony J. Dimond, congressional delegate from Alaska, wants congress to establish an army aviation base near Fairbanks as a defense measure. He contends that any war danger lies across the Pacific and that Alaska would be vulnerable in case of attack. An enemy operating from Alaska, he declares, would be only 1,400 miles away from continental United States. He holds, also, that an Alaskan air base would give army pilots valuable training in flying hazardous territory and would develop safer aviation equipment. The map shows Alaska in relation to the United States proper and Pacific territory.

By H. C. HUNTER.
Washington (AP).—Anthony J. Dimond, congressional delegate from Alaska, contends the next theatre of war for the United States will be "Alaska, the helpless."

In that way he describes Uncle Sam's northernmost territory in connection with his bill to establish an army air corps training and defense base near Fairbanks. The site would be chosen by military aviation strategists and the post staffed with a full complement of officers and men equipped with bombers and observation, pursuit and patrol planes.

Dimond said he was not an alarmist and not fearful of war, but contended that if there were any danger to the United States it lay across the Pacific rather than the Atlantic ocean.

Strategic Position.
"In Alaska," he said, "we have a string of islands (Aleutian) running towards Asia. They contain one of the finest harbors in the world for a hostile power to base fleet operations and we have agreed not to put any fortifications out there. It is the strategic position in Alaska, now absolutely defenseless, which makes it imperative that an air base be established there and well manned."

Referring to the millions of dollars spent for military defense in the Hawaiian Islands, Dimond said:

"We have locked one doorway against aggression but have left the other, which would be the main entrance in case of war on the Pacific, wide open and unguarded. An enemy operating from Hawaii would be 2,200 miles from continental United States but he would be only 1,400 miles away if he operated from the Alaskan harbors."

Seen As Aid to Fliers.

Declaring that a fleet starting from the northern tip of Japan could cover the 1,800 miles to Attu Island, western tip of the Aleutians, before a fleet starting at the same time from Seattle, Dimond says an air force stationed at Fairbanks would have to fly only 1,200 miles to protect the territory.

Emphasizing hazardous flying conditions in the north, the delegate described the rugged mountains, the vast expanses of tundra lands, the freezing cold of Arctic and sub-Arctic winter as ideal conditions of army fliers.

He included in the measure a plan for rotating all pilots to give them experience in the north.

Hopes for New Equipment.

"Forced to combat the elements of our northland," he said, "I am certain army fliers and designers would develop new equipment which would make their work easier and safer and at the same time rescue Alaska from the danger of becoming the battleground of two nations if war between the United States and a Pacific power ever came."

The Opossum
The opossum is omnivorous, therefore its diet consists of flesh, vegetation and insect life. In fact, it will eat anything. It is one of the few members of the marsupial family found in America, and like the kangaroo carries its young in an abdominal pouch. It is apparently a doll-witted, slow-moving creature with little means of defense except its exceptional ability to pretend death. Its tail is as handy as its claws in climbing trees, and it is equally at home on the ground or on the limb of a tree. They live in burrows, principally under the heavy roots system of trees.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Mary Sullivan, head of the Women's Police Bureau, told of what to my mind is just about the roughest racket in New York. Lonely women who have saved a little money are the victims. A woman pays a $50 registration fee in a matrimonial bureau. When she is introduced to a man she considers desirable, she pays another $50. A third $50 is due when the wedding occurs. But the wedding never does take place because the man introduced to her in cahoots with the owner of the agency and may be wooing three or four clients at the same time. Policewoman Sullivan has taken the matter up with the district attorney and maybe somebody will go to Sing Sing. Or, better yet, Clinton prison at Dannemora, which is known as Siberia because it's up in the Adirondacks so far from New York that visitors are few and where it does prisoners little good to try to escape, because if the guards don't get them, the weather and wild country do.

Speaking of prisons, John and Emanuel Hernandez pop into my mind. They are forty-five-year-old twins, listed by the police as incurable pickpockets. For a long time, the Hernandez boys worked a smooth racket. When one would be arrested, he would provide an alibi that couldn't be broken down because he and his brother looked so much alike, witnesses got all twisted up. But recently the police attained an ambition of years—they pinched the Hernandez brothers at the same time so the alibi racket is out.

Pickpockets make me think of Waxey Gordon, or rather Irving Waxler, which is his correct name. Waxey started out as a pickpocket, worked up to grand larceny and finally became such a big time racketeer that he was known as Public Enemy No. 1—all that within the space of 28 years. Then the government got him on an income tax evasion charge and he was sentenced to pay $80,000 fine and serve ten years. He's in Northeastern penitentiary now, the government having stepped in just as he was putting his affairs in order to retire with his wife and family to sunny California.

Conviction of Waxey Gordon carried with it more than a heavy fine and imprisonment for a term of years. Gordon's oldest son, a boy in whom he took great pride, was hurrying back from military school in the South to help his father. There was an automobile accident and the boy was killed. Waxey got the news in the Times—and wept. And he was sent to a prison in the same state in which his son lost his life. Possibly he'll do a lot of thinking behind the bars.

Passing along to something more cheerful, there is Geraldine Farrar. She comes to mind because I saw her going into the Metropolitan opera house the other evening. It was the first glimpse of the singer in years, and the whiteness of her hair was rather startling. Still it is becoming. She was laughing and chatting with a party of friends. At fifty-two, Geraldine Farrar finds life pleasant, indeed.

Miss Farrar retired from opera 12 years ago and from concert two years ago. She spends much of her time at her Ridgefield (Conn.) estate. Her father, the former baseball star, is with her. She has a half dozen or more dogs, plenty of books, and there are trees and flowers. She comes to town often and not infrequently attends the Metropolitan. When the opera was in money difficulties last year, her plea helped raise the $300,000 needed. Summers, she travels abroad.

Dropped into an uptown establishment where a polite young Greek makes my shoes gleam—and thanks me for a nickel tip. He wasn't on hand and the boss explained that he was over in Brooklyn collecting rents. "He owns an apartment house, you know," added his employer with a touch of admiration in his voice.

Dogs in United States Involve $80,000,000

New York.—There are about 12,000,000 dogs in the United States and their value does not exceed $48,000,000. However, when the various food concerns, small animal hospitals, breeding kennels, and other canine industries are considered, the value of the animals rises to $80,000,000, says a pet magazine.

Fails to Get Job After He Gets Wife

Sacramento, Calif.—Not only did a brilliant idea of a seventy-two-year-old CWA worker fail to solve the problem of keeping a job, but it placed him in a worse position than ever.

The man, whose name was not divulged, was discharged when it was found he was single and had no dependents. Two days later he reappeared at the CWA headquarters and demanded his job.

"I've been to Reno," he said. "I got married. I got a dependent." Informed that his action didn't help matters, he became indignant. "If I'd known that, I wouldn't 'a' got married."

Outlines Control
For Codling Moth

Albany, April 5.—A general spray program for codling moth control that would work equally well in any part of the state is not practical, says Prof. W. Harman, entomologist at the Experiment Station here, who has been making a special study of codling moth control for the past several years. Sectional and local differences with respect to codling moth infestation and response to control measures are so great that Prof. Harman recommends that each grower plan his own spray program in the light of past experience with this pest in his orchard. The procedure to be followed with various degrees of infestation and suggestions for supplementary measures to be employed in conjunction with spray operations are described in a circular prepared by Prof. Harman and now obtainable upon request to the Experiment Station.

Apple orchards in New York may be classified into three groups with respect to the codling moth problem, declares Prof. Harman. The first group, which he classifies as "highly infested," contains those orchards in which the August or second brood sprays are not required to give protection against the codling moth. Such orchards will be found in an area bordering directly on Lake Ontario and in the Hudson River Valley and Lake Champlain district. The second group, known as that of "average infestation," includes most of the orchards in the western New York fruit belt where three pounds of lead arsenate are required in all of the first and second brood sprays for satisfactory control.

The third group is designated as that of "severe infestation" and represents orchards in which control during the past few years has not been satisfactory even after using the standard recommendation of 3 pounds of lead arsenate in 100 gallons of spray for both the first and second broods. In many cases, orchards which fall in this latter group may be greatly benefitted by attention to supplementary control measures, says Prof. Harman.

Speedy Fish

The bonito, a member of the mackerel family, is one of the speediest of fishes. It is estimated that a single sweep of its powerful tail will propel it for at least 100 yards.

AAA Recommends
"Back to Grass"
Move for Farms

By CARL C. CRAMER

Washington, April 5.—What are farmers going to do with the more than 40,000,000 acres, an area larger than Illinois, withdrawn from crop production this year?

"Back to grass" is the answer of the agriculture department.

A picture of the new national plan for agriculture is being evolved at the department, which is drawn from remarks of agricultural officials, and it might be called "Back to America" with a pleasant farm life, more leisure, less drudgery and lower operating costs, pictured as its chief advantages.

Joseph F. Cox, chief of the replacement division of the AAA, says that the "only logical adjustment" in farm production is to "shift to grass" at the high-priced commercial farming machine is to be slowed down without a jar.

"So is a shock absorber that will cushion the adjustment program," he says.

Less Intensified Farming.

While the replacement division is investigating plans, producing drugs, insecticides, oils, perfumes, fibres and other products in an effort to find new crops for the abandoned acreage, Cox believes not more than 1,000,000 acres will be used in that way in the next few years.

Chester Davis, farm administrator, has pointed out that sowing more grass is a return from intensive commercial farming to a less intensive system, to the days before the war when farmers had not yet plowed up their blue grass pastures and meadows to plant corn and wheat.

Grassland farming takes less work than high pressure plowland farming, it provides grazing for cattle, a pleasant farm life, with lower operating costs, less drudgery and more leisure, says H. R. Tolley, assistant administrator.

Needn't Increase Livestock.

The practical effects of grassland farming are explained by Cox. It reduces the production of crops and does not necessarily increase the surplus of livestock products because each cultivated acre produces about twice as much animal sustenance as does an acre of pasture.

About 50 per cent of the present cultivated acreage, he estimates, is used to produce animal feed.

Other uses of various grasses are to prevent erosion by wind or water, to grow seed, restore soil fertility, and to aid in controlling plant diseases harbored in the soil as a result of long devotion to one crop.

That farmers are turning to grass generally is reflected in an increase in grass seed sales this spring.

Pearl Divers Are Experts

Off the northwest coast of the British island of Ceylon, in the Indian ocean, is located one of the world's most important pearl fisheries. Native divers collect the Ceylon pearl oysters. The divers wear "manjira" fastened to their nostrils and also attached to their heads to aid in their underwater work. They can remain submerged for a remarkably long time.

Most Northerly Point of Land

According to the American Geographic society, the most northerly point of land is Cape Morris K. Jesup, on the northeastern extremity of Greenland, under the sovereignty of Denmark. Its location is 83 degrees and 30 minutes north.

No need to drop whatever you're doing and run to another part of the house to answer calls when you have an extension telephone in the bedroom. It saves work!

A telephone in the living room is an all day convenience and "Dad" will appreciate it in answering calls after he's settled for the evening.

Privacy of conversation is assured with an extension in the bedroom. No need to hold personal conversations before other people. You can call the stores without embarrassment when unexpected guests drop in.

A telephone in the kitchen saves countless steps. It is so handy when doing the day's ordering or when answering a call while you are busy working in the kitchen.

No need to let anything burn while you enjoy a chat with a friend. This handy hangup telephone in the kitchen lets you talk and at the same time watch the food on the stove.

When you hear strange noises in or around the house—or should you be resting, or ill—an extension telephone beside your bed is a great aid.

Portable telephones are a great convenience. They can be moved from room to room and plugged into outlets like an electric lamp. They give the convenience of several additional telephones at very economical cost.

Today—The play "The Sign of the Cross" at the Kingston Theatre. The play is a historical drama, set in the time of the American Revolution. It tells the story of a young man who is captured by the British and taken to a prison. He is there for a long time, and during that time he meets a woman who is also a prisoner. They fall in love, and the man escapes from the prison. He goes back to the woman, and they live happily ever after.

Many Inquiries For Ulster County Lands

Nathaniel B. Gross, real estate broker, reports the largest number of inquiries for country property in ten years. He says that most of these people, coming from the large cities, are desirous of locating on farms and seem to be impressed by the many advantages offered by Ulster county.

Among recent sales was that of the John F. Bush place at Mombac, which was conveyed to E. Smith and wife. The Thomas A. Kennedy property at Saykill has also been sold to the Hudson Counties Estates, Inc., with resale to New York parties pending. Both these properties were sold by Mr. Gross of the Gross Farm Agency, 277 Fair street.

Three End Lives; Fourth Is Saved by Accident.

Fort Wayne, Ind.—Agreed in a family conference that the death of nine-year-old Florence Larrell left them nothing to live for, her parents and older sister ended their lives with gas in a wild and dramatic suicide pact. The only remaining member of the family, another daughter, Louise, twenty-seven, had entered the pact but she was saved when she fell from her chair in the gas-filled room, dislodging a piece of cloth which the door had been sealed and thus getting enough air to sustain her until police broke into the house.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 5 (AP)—The stock market today was a fairly busy one, with a general upward movement in prices. The Dow Jones industrial average closed at 114.12, up from 113.12 the previous day. The market was characterized by a steady demand for stocks, particularly in the industrial and utility sectors. The volume of trading was moderate, and the overall sentiment was optimistic.

Clyde Said Peter Threw Knife at Him

His Girl Friend Gave Similar Testimony in Police Court in Hearing Today—Peter Robins, the defendant, said he did not care to testify in other cases.

Peter Robins, a negro youth of 160 Gage street, was sentenced to 29 days in jail this morning by Judge Walter N. Gill in police court, after the court had heard the testimony of Clyde Broadhead, the complainant in the case, and his girl friend, Elmira Bassett. Robins himself said he did not care to take the witness stand in his own behalf.

According to Broadhead's story he and Miss Bassett were returning home from the movies on the evening of March 29, when they met Robins on the street. Robins stopped Broadhead and asked him what he was mixing up in his business. Broadhead said he told Robins he was not mixing in the business, which involved some real estate.

Broadhead said that Robins reached in his pocket and Elmira got between the two youths and that Broadhead then ran toward his cousin's house on Cornhill street as he did he said Robins threw a knife at him. He heard the knife fall to the ground behind him.

Miss Bassett corroborated Broadhead's testimony and said it was a butcher knife.

State Racing Bill Approved by Senate

Albany, N. Y., April 5 (AP)—The new deal for New York state's financially-stricken racing industry neared realization today. Overwhelmingly approved by the New York Senate yesterday, a three-point program to legalize betting and revise control of the state's five tracks was scheduled to be acted upon favorably by the Lower House before midnight and sent to Governor Lehman.

He was expected to approve the program, in view of his indication that he favors any measures which will bring relief to the tracks and at the same time provide a revenue to the state.

The program consists of (1) the Dunnigan bill to create a new state racing commission to cooperate with the Jockey Club in governing the sport; (2) the Crawford-Breitenbach proposal to repeal the Hughes anti-betting laws of 1908, effective immediately; and (3) the Twomey amendment to permit pari-mutuel wagering.

Both the Dunnigan and Crawford-Breitenbach measures provide for a 15 per cent tax on admissions.

So confident are members of the Jockey Club that the program will pass that they already have ratified the schedule of 1934 racing dates.

Failure of the Crawford-Breitenbach bill to gain approval would result, it is understood, in revision of the dates, the value of the purses and the scale of admission prices.

Four-H Clubs of Harper county, Oklahoma, staged rabbit hunts to finance their county federation activities.

POULTRY

MOVABLE BROODER BETTER THAN HEN

Affords Minimum of Labor, Cost, Mortality.

By R. E. Gray, Poultry Specialist, Ohio State University—WAS Service.

A movable brooder house large enough to house 150 to 400 chicks at a time, small enough to be moved easily, and cheap enough to be within the means of any poultryman, has proved its superiority over the hen for the average farmer as a means of brooding chicks with a minimum of labor, cost, and mortality. Success in raising chicks with the brooder stove depends to a large extent on the kind of house in which it is used. The house described in this article is large enough to permit good ventilation, and also to allow the chicks room to get away from the stove and into cooler air.

Success in poultry farming depends on raising strong, vigorous pullets. This can best be accomplished either by moving the chicks to fresh ground where there is an abundance of green feed, or by raising the chicks in strict confinement. The brooder house cannot be moved unless it is portable, but a portable brooder house can be used for confinement brooding. The house described has been designed for a brooder house, but can easily be changed into a laying house to accommodate about 25 birds. Perches and dropping boards are all that need be added to change the house into a laying house.

Sunlight Puts Vitamin D Content in Egg Yolk

The world has milk from contented cows; some day it may have eggs from irradiated hens.

That seems possible from an announcement by the Department of Agriculture that 15 minutes' exposure of a hen to a carbon arc lamp will increase the vitamin D content of her eggs. There are relatively few potent natural sources of vitamin D, and egg yolk is one of the most valuable of these.

The studies of the department indicated the diet of the hen and the amount of sunlight she receives during the laying period make considerable difference in the vitamin content of the egg yolk.

It was determined that the vitamin, which in human food promotes the assimilation of calcium and phosphorus and thus aids the development of bones and teeth, can be increased in the egg by feeding the hen cod liver oil or by exposure to natural or artificial sunlight.

Distinguishing Sex

Experience is the great teacher in distinguishing the sex of young chickens. This is comparatively easy with Leghorns and other sporting breeds. At six weeks of age the cockerels of such breeds will begin to show combs and wattles, while the pullets will be backward in head points, but developed in tails. In heavy breeds determination is more difficult, but the following method is said to be successful in most cases: Pluck a few feathers that grow from the saddle around the tail. If pointed, a cockerel is denoted; authorities say, but if round at the point, a pullet will be found. It is asserted by many that the best way to tell the sex of young ducklings is by their voices. Young ducks (females) will give loud quacks, but drakes (males) will emit a hoarse croak.—Los Angeles Times.

Cure for Pullorum

Control of pullorum disease, or bacillary white diarrhea, in baby chicks, appears within reach of the average poultryman, as a result of pullorum testing work carried on among Minnesota hatchery flocks for the last three years, according to the University of Minnesota agricultural extension division. Tests, carried on by local veterinarians, under the state live stock sanitary board, detect pullorum-infected hens so that they may be discarded and only eggs from the healthy hens used for hatching.

Poultry Notes

Feed costs amount to from 60 to 70 per cent of the cost of poultry production.

Cockerels should be castrated when they weigh from one and one-half to two and one-half pounds.

Too many troubles are tracked into laying quarters to allow one to take a chance. Let the visitor look in, but not go in.

Of the 6,000,000 farms in this country, only 22,000 have chicken flocks numbering 1,000 or more.

Roundworms infest chickens reared on the same ground year after year. Tapeworm infestation is spread by flies, another result of unsanitary practice, an expert points out.

Warm temperatures may be expected when the flock shows a loss of appetite, the wings start to droop, the feathers become ruffled, the flesh fades away and the bird becomes weakly.

Annual Meeting Of First Presbyterian Church Wednesday

Two Trustees Were Chosen—Membership Continues to Grow and Records Are Larger Than Last Year.

Six men of the First Presbyterian Church on Elmwood street were elected elders at the annual meeting of the congregation Wednesday night and two trustees were chosen at the meeting of the church corporation. The election of six elders increases the size of the session from six to nine, to give more proportionate representation to the membership, which continues to grow. It was reported:

The elders chosen are the following: Charles S. Barker, Robert D. Evans and Donald Keith for terms of three years; James H. Fraser for two years; Christian Saunders and Howard T. Williams for one-year terms. Elders whose terms continue from previous elections are Wallace Terpening, Dr. Harry P. Van Wagenen and W. Kenneth Kukuk.

Fred A. Adams was elected, and Chester A. Adams, nominated, to serve terms of three years on the board of trustees.

Membership gains over and above losses by suspension and death totaled 11, bringing the resident active membership to 102. Non-resident members total 17, those on inactive roll 21, children of members 17, and adherents 162. Average net gains in membership the last two years were 20.

Current receipts for congregational support and special receipts reached a total larger than last year's, as did the amounts raised for benevolences and other causes. Each organization in the church reported larger incomes this year than last.

The session report for the year ended last December 31, at the morning worship on Sundays and usual attendance Sunday nights. New equipment procured during the year included new vestments for the senior choir, a lectern for the chapel and also for the church school. One elder, W. Kenneth Kukuk, was sent as a delegate to the synod of New York and the minister, the Rev. Goodrich Gates, to the general assembly as a commissioner from the Presbytery of North River.

A newly organized parish visitation committee was reported to be functioning effectively, to supplement parish calling by the minister. The church celebrated its 50th anniversary during the year. Its total active resident membership places it as third church in size in the Presbytery of North River. Two years ago it was eighth in size.

The financial report read by William T. Norwood, treasurer, showed an upturn towards the close of the year in the finances of the church. The Easter offering was considerably in excess of that of the year before, with more yet to be received.

Projects for the new year include continued cooperation with the First Baptist Church in union summer services, the organization of a Men's Club, extension of the work of the Week Day School of Religion and revival of the Board of Deacons. Election of nine deacons slated for last night was deferred to a subsequent special congregational meeting to be convened later this month.

Meetings last night were preceded by a church family supper. During a recess of the corporation meeting the congregation held its annual meeting.

Election of nine deacons later this month will not involve a new organization since the Board of Deacons never was abolished but inactive after 1927 since when no elections have been held. Increase in size of the Session provides for a larger representation not had in the church since 1929. Before that time there were 12 elders on the Session.

Ordination of elders not previously ordained will take place at the next Communion and reception of new members, Sunday, April 15. They are Messrs. Evans, Keith, Fraser, Saunders, and Terwilliger. Charles S. Barker has previously served as a member of the Session. Following the ordinations, all six will be installed.

$20,000 Gem Theft Reported in New York

New York, April 5 (AP)—Mrs. John Loeb, niece of Governor Herbert H. Lehman, reported to police early today that she had been robbed of jewelry valued at $20,000 while visiting in the home of her parents, the Arthur Lehmans, on East 70th street. Mrs. Loeb and her husband, a broker, live in Purchase, N. Y. The jewelry was taken from a dresser drawer of a top floor bedroom, and included a pearl necklace, a watch, a number of bracelets and a bawling brooch. Other jewelry in the drawer, described only as of "great value," was not disturbed.

Insull Busy Today Working on Memoirs

Insull, Turkey, April 5 (AP)—Samuel Insull spent today writing notes of his memoirs to the world will have the side of a spectacular story.

Sitting under guard in a hospital ward, he jotted memoranda of the desperate sea fight from American authorities.

The Turkish government, which stopped the first unceremoniously, sought to sweep away the last legal cobwebs and have him ready for the United States when it comes to get him.

Public prosecutor Kema announced that Istanbul legal authorities were examining the new protest lodged by lawyers against Insull's arrest. He reaffirmed that the penal tribunal had definitely rejected a petition for an appeal.

During the night, the travel-weary Chicagoan received word from his London agents that an additional $10,000 had been made available for his use in continuing the last-ditch struggle against extradition to the United States.

Cheered by the message, Insull spent yesterday evening writing letters and making notes for his memoirs.

He remained under guard in a hospital ward while extra police were assigned to scatter throngs of curious outsiders.

American authorities, confident that Insull will be available when agents arrive to return him, were reported considering placing him aboard the American ship S. S. Excelsior, which leaves here next Tuesday or the S. S. Excelsior, scheduled to depart April 24.

Destroyer Talbot Here June 24-28

The Navy Department has assigned the U. S. Destroyer Talbot to visit Kingston for a four day stay, June 24 to 28, when an opportunity will be given the residents of Kingston and vicinity to visit the ship. The visit here of the destroyer was made at the request of Mayor C. J. Heiselman in a communication to the war department earlier in the year.

The Talbot is a destroyer of about 1,200 tons displacement. She measures 300 feet in length, 30 foot beam and 13 to 15 feet draft. Her crew consists of five to eight officers, seven or eight petty officers and a hundred or more sailors. She has a speed of 32 knots, and carries four 4-inch and one 3-inch gun. She is equipped with four triple torpedo tubes for 21 feet torpedoes, 12 in all.

Camels
The Bactrian camel is much more stoutly built and shorter of leg than the Arabian camel. Because of this the Bactrian is able to cope with the rough character of much of Central Asia, its native home, as well as with desert territory, but the Arabian camel can travel with safety only on the desert. It is very likely to break its legs on uneven ground.

Bee's Stinging Muscles
Cause Three Movements

When a bee stings a man, it is not only the sting that causes pain, but the three movements of the stinging apparatus. The first movement is the insertion of the sting into the skin. The second movement is the withdrawal of the sting. The third movement is the withdrawal of the stinging apparatus.

The stinging apparatus of a bee is a very complicated organ. It is composed of the sting, the stinging apparatus, and the stinging apparatus. The sting is the part that actually pierces the skin. The stinging apparatus is the part that causes the pain. The stinging apparatus is the part that causes the pain.

U. S. Annexations

Nearly a third of the territory of the continental United States was once a part of Mexico. It was acquired by the United States in three annexations. The first was when Texas, which had rebelled from Mexico and set up a separate government, was annexed to this country in 1845. The question of the Texas boundary led to the Mexican war, at the conclusion of which our southern neighbor ceded everything north of the Rio Grande and Gila rivers. In 1853 this country settled a number of questions of boundary, property and damages by purchasing an additional strip of southwestern land from Mexico—the Gadsden purchase. Included in these three acquisitions were all of the states of Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Nevada and California, more than half of Colorado and parts of Oklahoma, Kansas and Wyoming.

"Averse" and "Adverse"

"Averse," from the Latin aversus, alienated, is derived from avertere, to turn away, and is applicable only to beings of consciousness and will, and that in reference to their inclinations and tastes. We are averse to that which we disapprove, but averse to that which we oppose to our reason, or to that which is uncongenial to our tastes. We are averse also to entering upon such courses or taking such steps as we may feel to be objectionable on any account whatsoever. In addition, we are averse to actions, conduct, or occupations that are foreign to our nature, or to which we do not like. Few cats are averse to fish. Literary Digest.

Death Valley an Inferno

Although it lies below sea level for 78 miles of its total length of 115 miles, Death valley has gained the fame of being an inferno of heat in the summer, while the winter climate is considered ideal, observes a writer in the Los Angeles Times.

Death valley's greatest depth is 310 feet below sea level at Bad Water, 13 miles south of Furnace Creek Inn, yet only 16 miles in an air line across the valley from Bad Water majestic Telescope peak rises to 11,045 feet above sea level, and 11,355 feet above the low point of the valley, the greatest rise in such short distance of any mountain in the United States. Even Mt. Whitney, premier peak of continental United States, which towers 14,496 feet above sea level, rises only 10,768 feet above the level of Owens valley at Lone Pine. The visitor at Bad Water, reached by a desert road south from Furnace Creek, actually views a higher mountain than Mt. Whitney when he gazes westward to the summit of Telescope peak.

Telescope peak, which is an outstanding landmark for many miles in every direction, either in or out of Death valley, was first scaled in 1900 by W. T. Henderson, who gave it the name it bears because of the magnificent view to be had from its summit.

A PIECE OF PAPER

By COSMO HAMILTON

© 1934 McClure Newspaper Syndicate, Inc.

JON SHEPHERD'S mind was made up. He was going to kill a man in cold blood. He sat outside his trapper's shack on the marsh and cleaned his gun with a slow, brooding deliberation.

It was dusk when he had come home—home from the stretch they give to poachers in the county jail at Pennsboro. It was dark when he finished cleaning his gun. It smelled of oil and its barrel glistened in the dim moonlight. He leaned it up against the shack.

All around him, in the Indian summer evening, the marsh stirred and was alive with old familiar sounds. Birds rustled in the grass; down near the landing a muskrat splashed; ducks were gabbling out in the bay. On the northern horizon the Pennsboro glow hovered between the flats and the stars. Over east, beyond the dunes, the autumn ocean mumbled and sucked at its strip of Carolina coast.

Jon Shepherd was part of all this, part of the life and soul of the marsh. He shared its somber moods, its inert fascination, its dark pride. Like the marsh, he could smile suddenly and become suddenly bleak. But now he had only murder in his heart. Only an obsession as cold, as deliberate, as it was unbalanced. He was going to kill the man who had been responsible for sending him to jail. He was going to do it tonight.

He lit a cigarette. The flare of the match snatched his face out of the dark. It exploded with noiseless light against the bony cheeks, the riveted black eyes, the aquiline nose, the thin lips gripping the cigarette. Jon Shepherd took two or three puffs on the cigarette and then flipped it into the damp marsh-grass, where it glowed and pulsed like a fire-beetle. It was tenacious, it wouldn't go out. He wondered whether Henry Garner would be as hard to kill.

For as long as Jon Shepherd could remember he and Henry Garner had been friends. Henry Garner had been rich; he himself had been poor. Henry Garner had been brought up in the big house beyond the woods near the Pennsboro road, while he had always lived in the trapper's shack. But none of these things had mattered until Henry Garner inherited the big house and began to invite fine guests down from Baltimore and Richmond and Philadelphia. Then one day he had warned Jon Shepherd to confine his trapping and shooting activities to the bay and the lower marsh, away from private property. He wanted to turn his own land into a sporting preserve. And when Shepherd had disregarded his warning—not once, but twice—Garner had sent him to jail.

The cigarette in the marsh-grass sizzled and went out. Shepherd stood up and reached for his gun. His body was a dark blotch against the shack, the shack was a pale blotch against the pines behind it, and the pines were a shaggy uncombed wilderness heiter-skeiter under the new moon. It was a grand night for loving or killing—whichever a man had a mind to do.

The killing itself would be very simple. There would be a short tramp through the woods to the big house near the Pennsboro road. Then there would be a creeping up to the window of the room where Henry Garner always sat about this time. After that there would be nothing left to do but ram the muzzle of the gun through a thin pane and coax a couple of tender triggers. It was all as simple as that. Jon Shepherd had no desire to leer at Henry Garner or to taunt him. He wanted to have it over with as soon as possible.

He tucked his shotgun in the crotch of his arm and walked unburdened towards the strip of woods that marked the beginning of Garner's land. He walked inexorably, like a machine that had been wound up and pointed at a certain spot. At the edge of the woods he paused to make sure that the safety catch of his gun was all right. Although he knew every inch of the way, he didn't want his gun to go off if he tripped in the underbrush. Then he faced around for a last look eastward. The marsh curved darkly around the bay, and the bay lay asleep against the dim shoulders of the dunes. Beyond the dunes, the beat of the ocean seemed to keep time with the beat of the blood in Shepherd's chest and wrists and temples. But there was no need to hurry. There was no use getting excited.

Shepherd walked through the woods and skirted the field that lay in front of the big house where Garner lived. His state of mind was quite different from that of the average story-book murderer. No lurking fear clutched at his heart; none of the usual drops of sweat stood out on his brow. Everything was matter-of-fact, even the light that glimmered in the downstairs window and guided him, as he had known it would.

By using the cover of a clump of bushes it was easy to creep up to the lighted window. Shepherd crouched under the sill and gripped his gun with both hands, ready for a smashing blow at the pane. Then he stood up deliberately and looked in. His face stiffened into the light and poised there, vulpine staring.

Nobody was there. Nobody was in the room.

For a moment it seemed to Shepherd that his plan had failed. Every long slow day in the Pennsboro jail had focused his obsession on this time and on this place. Then he realized that Garner must be somewhere very near. The creak of the fire ascender in the grate and there was an open magazine on the arm of Garner's usual chair. There were two glasses and a bottle on the table, which indicated that Garner had a visitor. Garner and his visitor, whoever it was, must be out on the veranda at the other side of the house, because the night was beautiful and warm.

Keeping close to the wall, Shepherd edged around the corner and worked his way towards the veranda. Suddenly he heard Garner's voice say something in a low tone. Then it stopped and there was no answer. Shepherd reached the side of the veranda and paused, wondering how best to do this killing quickly. Recognition didn't matter, because everybody would know he had shot Garner anyway.

Just then he heard the other voice. It was a woman's, soft and thrilling, and it was saying something that seemed very important. It was a voice that had a startling effect on the man crouching in the shadows with the gun. At first vaguely familiar, like a vanished dream, then it began to burn its way into him with a soft fiery music that washed away his murderous obsession and his consciousness of time and place. In all the world there was only this voice—and he was listening to it.

"It's just because I love you so much that I must tell you, Henry," it said. "If I hurt you it's only because it would hurt me more to be divided from you by any secret."

"Tell me," said Garner's voice quietly. "It was a wounded boy behind the lines." The other voice was very steady. "He was going back to the front. It wasn't pity, either. It was something else that I couldn't explain even to myself. He was so alone, so brooding, so passionately strange. My sense of values was warped then, too, I suppose. Anyway, he loved me. He wanted me."

"I see," said Garner's voice. "It happened the night before he went back." The other voice faltered a little. "I never saw him again. He wrote me letters for a while—sweet, strange, illiterate letters. And, foolishly, perhaps, I answered one of them. But that has never worried me. I trusted him."

There was a little silence and then Garner's voice said, "Yes, that was foolish. A letter like that is only a piece of paper, but it can be a terrible weapon. But it can't be now, can it?"

"No," said the other voice. "It can't be now."

The crouching figure beside the veranda straightened up and leaned against the wall. Jon Shepherd's face was a pale expressionless mask in the faint light.

"You're brave," said Garner's voice. There was a slight sound like a kiss. "It's past now. I love you."

When Jon Shepherd got back to his shack he went inside and groped around for the box in which he kept his shotgun shells. Then he broke his gun mechanically, took out the two unused shells, and put them back in the box.

There was an old duffle bag in one corner of the room, and Shepherd went over to it and knelt down. He knew exactly where the letter was. His hand closed on it and pulled it out. He crooned there with it in the darkness. A piece of paper? A terrible weapon? Were these all this wonderful letter could be?

Suddenly he struck a match and touched the flame to the dog-eared envelope. The paper began to burn brighter and brighter until the light was dancing with the shadows on the walls. But Jon Shepherd's shadow was huge and quiet and shapeless.

When the letter burned down and began to scorch his fingers he dropped it on the floor and went outside. There was no moon. The marsh and bay and dunes were one blur under the stars. Shepherd walked down the rotting boardwalk to the landing. His old boat was still there—half full of water, but that didn't matter. He climbed into it and began to row.

He rowed the boat towards the Pennsboro lights that hovered above the northern horizon. Pretty soon he noticed, without surprise, that his shack was burning. He leaned on his oars to watch it. It became a gigantic torch that lighted his farewell view of the marsh with a red glare.

Jon Shepherd bent to his oars again. The bay was rippling up. The breeze was shifting into the northeast. There would be fine duck hunting weather in a day or two. And Garner's gun would be booming back there in the flats.
